Coding framework for Schemes of Work to determine the extent to which a disciplinary approach is adopted

Characteristics of a disciplinary focus

Characteristics of a substantive knowledge focus

Use of enquiry questions – with a clear conceptual and/or procedural focus, e.g. how far did change?

Topic headings, e.g. medieval religion or enquiry questions used but with a descriptive focus, e.g. what was life like in ...?

Learning objectives specify a conceptual/procedural focus

Learning objectives identify substantive knowledge that is to be developed

Lesson activities used to develop conceptual/procedural thinking e.g. card sorts that allow pupils to categorise/prioritise causes

Lesson activities refer to acquisition of substantive knowledge, e.g. sequencing events

Assessment/outcome focused on concepts/processes

Assessment/outcome focused on presenting knowledge

Examples of application of characteristics to determine disciplinary/substantive knowledge focus

Enquiry question/topic focus	Learning objectives identify concept/process	Learning objectives identify substantive knowledge	Main activities	Assessment

The Riccall mystery: whose head is it?	Sourcework		Use small number of sources to create a hypothesis. Use further sources to test the hypothesis.	Process by which claims are constructed. The degree of (un)certainty that underpins claims.	Strong disciplinary focus
Why did William win the battle of Hastings?	Causation & sourcework		Use sources to identify causes and to judge value of different sources.	Essay to argue why William won, and to assess the reliability of sources.	Strong disciplinary focus
How did castles help William control England?		Definition of key terms	Annotate diagram of a motte and bailey castle.	Letter from William explaining to barons why to build a castle.	Largely substantive knowledge focus

Table 1 - Comparison of two schools' approaches

Apple School			Lemon School
Enquiry question/topic focus	Concept/process	Key features	Enquiry question/topic focus	Concept/process	Key features
Who should be king in 1066?		Knowledge of individuals	Contenders to the throne		Knowledge of individuals
The Riccall mystery: whose head is it?	Sourcework		Battle of Stamford Bridge		Key events
What happened at the battle of Hastings?		Key events	Battle of Hastings		Key events
Why did William win the battle of Hastings?	Causation & evidence		Why did William win the battle of Hastings?	Causation

Relations between England, Wales, Scotland and Ireland	2	The Restoration	6
Entertainment	1	Great Fire of London	3
Health	2	Christopher Wren	1
Technology	1	Role of women	1
		Exploration	1
		The Glorious Revolution	3
		Scientific Revolution	2

Table 4 – Comparison of main approaches adopted in the history departments

	Chronological/episodic vs thematic	Overview vs depth	Enquiry (disciplinary)vs topic
Lemon School	Largely chronological – medicine through time provides a continuing theme	Largely depth, few explicit overviews	Largely topic focused
Oak School	Largely chronological (expect for theme of oppression & resistance)	Largely depth, few explicit overviews	Largely enquiry based
Elm School	Largely chronological, but each year focused round a theme	Largely depth, some overviews	Mix of topic based and enquiry based
Cherry School¹	Largely chronological	Largely depth	Largely enquiry based
Apple School	Largely chronological	Largely depth, some overviews	Largely enquiry based
Ash School	Largely chronological	Largely depth	Largely enquiry based
Pear School	Largely chronological, although medieval history is 'chunked'	Largely depth	Mix of topic based and enquiry based
Orange School	Thematic, but taught in chronological sweeps	Largely overviews, with some depth	Largely topic focused
Chestnut School	Largely chronological	Largely depth	Mix of topic based and enquiry based

¹ NB this department's schemes of work only went up to C17th at the time of this study

Plum School	Each unit built around a theme, but then taught largely chronologically	Even mix of overview and depth	Enquiry based
